EXPECT INCREASE IN SIEGEL BAIL TO-DAY

Whitman Looks For Eleven More Indictments to Be Returned.

SECRET CONFERENCE

Whereabouts of Accused Merchants and Their Lawyer Unknown.

Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel, the two merchants now under three indictments growing out of the Siegel failures, were said to be in a long conference yesterday afternoon with their counsel, Louis S. Levy, regarding the additionar indictments expected to-day, the furnishing of extra ball and a possible change of plea when they appear before Judge Rosalsky on Wednesday. The whereabouts of all three was a secret.

Efforts to locate Slegel and Vogel at the Majestic and Great Northern hotels were fruitless. They were not in their apartments and nobody at the hotels knew where they have gone. At Mr. Levy's home, the Gotham, his wife said she had no idea where he was, but believed he would not be back until late. It was then thought that he and his clients were at Islip, L. I., where John B. Stancnfield, Levy's law partner, has a home, but Mr. Stanchfield declared he knew nothing about the conference or the whereabouts of the three men. He would not discuss the plans of the merchants.

11 Indictments Expected.

The District Attorney's office, it was The District Attorney's office, it was said authoritatively yesterday, expects the Grand Jury to return at least eleven of the twelve additional indictments which will be asked for. Assistant District Attorney Arthur Train and Charles A. Perkins, head of the indictment bureau, have been busy getting them ready for two weeks. The work has been enormous and some of the indictments are expected to cover 100 typewritten pages.

Two of them, it is said, will charge the merchants with receiving deposits in the bank when they knew it was insolvent, while the others will refer to the solvent, while the others will refer to the statements made by Siegel and Vogel to banks in New York and elsewhere in order to get loans to carry on the busi-ness of the collapsing enterprises. The presentment of the indictments ex-pected to-day will demand an increase in pected to-day will demand an increase in bail of $25,000 each, under which the men are now at liberty. Yesterday's con-ference was looked upon as having to do with this extra bonding. If the indict-ments are found to-day the bail will have to be raised at once and another plea entered this afternoon.

Levy Mayer, the Chicago lawyer who came here early last week in the interest of the Nelson Morris family, Vogel's wife's relatives, returned to Chicago on an after-noon train. He said a few days ago he had come to look over the situation and report to his clients. "The articles in the newspapers questioning the transactions in Sterling Gum in view of the fact that when the initial transactions occurred the company was not yet officially incorporated were gravely unjust to us and disclose a complete misunderstanding of the attending circumstances. We did not open the market for the stock. That was done by the bidders for it, which included such houses as Eugene Meyer, Jr. & Co. and other Stock Exchange houses.

"Within a few moments after the news ticker had announced the name of the new company traders and Stock Exchange houses began bidding for the stock. It was quite 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and as soon as the bankers heard through us that trading had begun in the stock we received instructions to supply all bids and thus prevent a runaway market. We did not bid for the stock and know absolutely that no house connected with us either directly or indirectly did so.

Mr. Bamberger said that the following brokerage concerns had bought blocks of the stock: Eugene Meyer, Jr., & Co., 1,000 shares; Jenks, Gwynne & Co., 100; Hetherington & Co., 100; Sutro Bros., 200; E. Mr. Bamberger said that his concern and those behind the gum company invite the closest investigation by the Stock Exchange and others.

BIDDERS OPENED GUM MARKET. SAYS DISEASED COWS ARE USED FOR MEAT

Paul E. Taylor Asserts Tuberculous Cattle Are Sent to Institutions.

FAVOR FRIENDLY DEALERS

Agricultural Officials Pay Top Prices for Bad Stock. He Charges.

Paul E. Taylor, secretary of the New York Milk Committee, charged publicly yesterday that the State Department of Agriculture is using taxpayers' money in taking diseased cattle off the hands of friendly dealers and consigning them to friendly private institutions or to personal friends or officals of the department.

Mr. Taylor's charges were based upon actions of the Agricultural Department under what is known as the Bang system. This system provides that tuberculous cattle may be taken from dealers and used for breeding purposes. The calves are segregated from the tuberculous stock shortly after birth and fed on pasteurized milk, growing into healthy cattle. The system is intended to replenish diseased stock with healthy stock, and a whole herd of diseased cattle can be replaced with healthy cattle within three to five years.

The general agricultural law permits the Department to test cattle at the re-quest of their owners, and if the cattle are found to be diseased they can be either slaughtered or used for experi-mental purposes. The choice lies with the Department.

Private Sales Unauthorised.

"The Legislature appropriates about $200,000 a year for this work," said Dr. Charles E. North, member of the milk committee, last night, "and we believe that the officials of the Department have construed the law too loosely. There is nothing in the law which permits the Department to dispose of cattle to private dealers or to institutions. The Department has charge of the farms of about thirty State institutions and the experiments ought to be carried on there.

"Purchase by the State of diseased cattle would help the farmers, but as it works out the appropriation helps only a favored few. If their tuberculous stock was killed and sold for meat they would get but little for it, as the law provides that if a cow has a small localized disease all its meat except that affected can be sold, but if the disease is general the cow must be condemned."

the cow must be condemned."

Mr. Taylor said yesterday that the department has been paying the highest prices possible under the law to a select list of cattle dealers. The cows thus purchased have been sent to other dealers or to friendly institutions, he said, and instead of being used for breeding purposes many of them have been killed for meat.

for meat.
Mr. Taylor said that the Lincoln Agri-Mr. Taylor said that the Lincoln Agricultural School, at Lincolndale, N. Y., which has 250 inmates who are supported by the city of New York, is one of the favored institutions. A representative of the New York Milk Committee examined shipments of cows to this institution; Mr. Taylor said, and learned that in the six months period ended December 28, 1912, 132 cows were received at the school, of which seventy-five are officially recorded in Albany as having been killed.

The department's presents are not confined to schools, said Mr. Taylor. He cited as a proof of this statement the case of a resident of Coeyman's Hollow. N. Y., whose name he gave. This man proaches of the loan sharks, and the fund was established to get employees out of

The New York State Board of Mediation and Arbitration will try to-day to bring about a conference between the representatives of the marine department of the Baltimore and Ohlo Raliroad Company and its striking tug hands with a view to a settlement of the strike. Although the raliroad officials say they have filled the places of the strikers and there is nothing to arbitrate, it is thought that there is still a loophole for a settlement.

F. Q. Morrow, president of the Harbor, Boatmen's Union, which is managing the strike, said yesterday that the strike side yesterday that the strike headers employed by the Russell Towing Company, whose tug hands like those of the Baltimore and Ohlo, are on strike for a day off every week, have been induced to quit.
